#BananaRépublique invites you to celebrate with dignity France's arrival amongst the Banana regime countries; those countries where sons succeed to their fathers and where birth and the power of money are omnipotent...

#BananaRépublique is an initiative of simple citizens to oppose this dire looking era. Our weapon is a banana! You've got one? Join us!

To take part:

- Buy a banana
- Decorate it with a red, white and blue flag

Your banana now has magical power! It's a telephone connected directly to the Elysée so you can apply and be a candidate at the head of the EPAD too. You have the competence, right? The line is open, so just say so and go for it!

What it's all about:

Take a picture or make the most original film possible of you and your banana. A pose will do but anything (almost) you can imagine is allowed. Along the way we'll collect all material and create a huge gallery with a bunch of perfect candidates for the EPAD.

Where?

Anywhere you can think of, where you can find a symbol of the French Republic, city halls, administrations... On the mainland or the distant islands.

When?

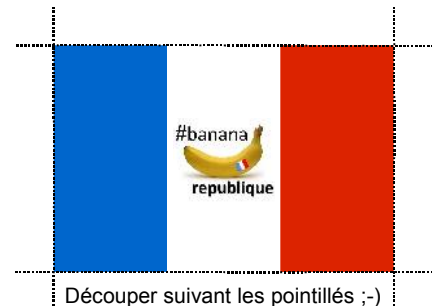

Between Monday 19th and Friday 23rd included. Choose moments when there are lots of people and have them participate. It'll look better on the pictures.

Flashmob in Paris, thursday October 22sd.

Be ready. Leave your cell number on the site. Two short messages will be sent to you. The first to explain how the mob works, the second to give you the time and date.

For whom?

Everybody! This banana is not the property of any political party, nor of any private corporation, or school of thought. We want it to be republican in its most original significance. This banana represents a public thing, a public cause. That's the reason we want to get together. Each one is invited to carry it, with no exclusion, provided there is no intention to use it in a violent way. The operation's site: www.bananarepublique.org! Please use it to set appointments. You can use the interactive map for that purpose.
